

Conference Dynamics in Siberia

February 29 – March 4, 2016, Novosibirsk, Russia

The topics of the conference will include dynamical systems, geometry and related subjects.

The program of the conference will include 50-minutes plenary talks and 30-minutes sectional talks.

Programm Committee:

I. Dynnikov (Steklov Mathematical Institute, Moscow)
A. Mironov (Sobolev Institute of Mathematics, Novosibirsk)
A. Skripchenko (Higher School of Economics, Moscow)
I. Taimanov (Sobolev Institute of Mathematics, Novosibirsk)
A. Vesnin (Sobolev Institute of Mathematics, Novosibirsk)

Local Organizers:

A. Belyaev (Novosibirsk State University, Novosibirsk)
V. Davletshina (Novosibirsk State University, Novosibirsk)
A. Mironov (Sobolev Institute of Mathematics, Novosibirsk)
E. Shamaev (Ammosov Northeastern Federal University, Yakutsk)

The conference will be held in Sobolev Institute of Mathematics of Russian Academy of Sciences located in the Akademgorodok, which is a part of Novosibirsk and the educational and scientific centre of Siberia. Akademgorodok is separated from the city and surrounded by a birch and pine forest on the shore of the Ob Sea, an artificial reservoir on the river Ob. In the beginning of spring it is covered by snow with daytime air temperature slightly below zero, which makes it a nice place for cross country skiing.
